Introductory remarks by Julius von Freytag-Loringhoven (Friedrich Naumann Foundation)

Section 1. General discussion. All participants express their attitudes toward key questions:

What distinguished soviet society from other LAOs reviewed in NWW earlier?

What made progress possible at certain stages of USSR development, primarily in the 1920s and 1950s?

NWW 2009 stress that the emergence of the early OAOs in the 19th century had a considerable impact on the development of all other societies, acting as a model to be borrowed. Hence, a question: what effect did have Soviet history (Soviet communist project) on open access orders?

How did the Soviet past affect access order evolution during the 1990s and 2000s, and how is it still influencing the development of economy, society and state in today's Russia?
